HISTORY

The Regional Black Contractors Association, Inc. (RBCA) was incorporated in November 2014 by a small group of Black volunteer contractors spearheaded by the Black Contractors Association and the Dallas Black Chamber of Commerce. Since its inception, the RBCA has grown into an organization of over 100 members consisting of general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, developers, corporations, and public entities.

MISSION

The Regional Black Contractors Association's mission is to advocate for and advance the development and growth of African-American owned businesses and their capacity. This contributes to and participates in the self-determination, economic growth and prosperity of African-American communities in the North Texas Region, thereby creating a strong economic base that develops, empowers and supports the ongoing success of these communities and our businesses at large. Increasing the number of successful African and minority businesses by helping them gain access to procurement opportunities and capital is an ongoing process.

ADVOCACY

The RBCA maintains very effective working relationship with state, municipal, and corporate leaders and their supplier diversity executives, elected and appointed officials for the support of African-American business development. Locally, statewide and in Washington, DC, we are constantly monitoring of pending legislation that might affect our member's businesses, their growth and even their ability to conduct business. When legislation is being considered that affects our mission, the RBCA quickly mobilizes to work with key policy makers to support and ensure that every opportunity is available for the RBCA and its members.
